

E. TOURNER, Esq., is hereby authorized to transact for us any business connected with the News and Journal office, of this city.

"Mr. Editor: Sir—You will do me a great kindness to keep your paper at home."

The above is a copy, verbatim et literatim, of an epistle written upon a weekly Journal returned to this office from Carolina Mills, R. I. Our object in transcribing it is, to inquire of the citizens of that locality, if they know of anything over there bearing the name P. M. A person is presumed to be indicated, as personal terms are used over the signature. He talks about "me." This person is undoubtedly of the masculine gender, there being a coarseness in the style quite unnatural to the other sex.

This same person is evidently of considerable consequence—in his own estimation—as he modestly asks us to withhold our paper from some twenty-seven subscribers for his sake.

Thus far the case is not very perplexing. But when we proceed to inquire who he is, or what he is, we find ourselves greatly puzzled. True, P. M. generally stands for Postmaster. But Postmasters are presumed to be a mannerly, decent sort of people at least. These letters must not be presumed, therefore, to mean anything of the kind in the address. Had N been in the place of M, it might be thought to mean Public Nuisance; but not doubting the appropriateness of the subscription, we should have let it pass. But it is P. M.

And then, as if to increase our embarrassment, he has placed these mysterious symbols in parenthesis; which makes them represent almost nothing at all. Thus enclosed, they would seem to be an admission of the absence of sense, either in the letter or its author, or both.

But perhaps they were only intended as the initials of "Publish Me." If this is all, it is to be hoped Mr. P. M. will feel easy after this.

Grundy county, Iowa, polled in the recent election 199 votes, of which Fremont received 1; "Grundy" is fairly entitled to the banner. We pity that poor Democrat! he will have to take all the offices in the county, for "to the victors belong the spoils." Rather than he should suffer, from an accumulation of duties, we could spare him a dozen or so from here, who would not object to an office, or two apiece.

In "Harpers Weekly," we notice an article on the Government of "Louis Napoleon," not so remarkable in itself, as a gratifying evidence of a disposition on the part of that eminent publishing house to undo a portion of the injury done by them, in their publication of an absurd History of Napoleon 1st. which appeared in their "Monthly."

In treating the character of that wonderful man, every term of laudation that the language contains seemed to be exhausted, and the recurrence of unqualified praise and exaggerated approval, with which every page teemed, was simply amusing to one who was familiar with the true history of the man. His most gigantic crimes were glossed over as political necessities, and his noble traits magnified into sublime proportions. We had every reason to expect a similar eulogy of the "Third Napoleon," and were really surprised to find that his violation of oaths and constitution pledges, his utter subversion of the liberties of a people whom he found free, his banishment of his best men and women, whose only crime was patriotism, are characterized as they deserve. The writer says of his government: "It cannot last. The history of the world is against it. The age is against it. The laws of nature, and of God, are against it. It is only a crawling of the furnace, and a snuffing up of the valves. The explosion will one day shake the world." Every child should be made familiar with the history of this mighty bubble. He is the Imperial "Huntington" of France. His speculations and extravagances are almost greater than those of his American prototype. This crash is longer deferred, but as is inevitable. No better lesson can be instilled into the youthful mind than these two men furnish. It can be seen how Inordinate Ambition, device, Lust of Power, violation of Honor, and mean abuse of generous confidence, sooner or later bring disgrace, and disaster here, and more lasting punishment hereafter.

In 1726 a public School house was built in Portsmouth.

Thalberg, the greatest Pianist in the world, unless we except Liszt, is giving concerts in Boston to crowded houses. Saturday evening he played Beethoven's C minor Concerto, with the aid of Mr. Zerahn's orchestra, besides a rich programme otherwise.

From Dwigth's Musical Journal we learn the following respecting his performance, for a few days to come. His fourth and fifth concerts in Boston will be on Tuesday and Friday evenings of this week.

We had no mail from Providence or Boston yesterday, and consequently have not much that is new to present our readers.

TO JACOB, THE NORWEGIAN.

[ONE OF THE CREW OF THE SHIP.]

O Jacob! what a chest is thine, Stout as thine own Norwegian pine. With admiration, not quite free From envy, do I gaze on thee, As, walking up and down the deck, With flushed and bare and brawny neck, (Thy weather-beaten face, the while, Uplifted with a radiant smile), Thou seem'st with pride to show that breast, That manly, staunch, Norwegian chest. —O Jacob, in that chest of thine, Thou keep'st a treasure, would were mine! More precious far than worlds of wealth, The priceless treasure, rugged health! —But, brother Jacob, in thy song, I see, has well nigh done thee wrong; 'Tis true that thou, with honest pride, Along the deck art wont to stride; But 'tis not pride of brawn and bone That in thy walk and look is shown; No, 'tis the manly pride that stands, With cheerful heart and faithful hands To do its work, or great or small, To do it well and do it all— This by my Muse shall be confessed— O Jacob of the brawny chest!

Mr. Editor:—Some days ago you published a communication over the signature of "Democrat," to which you courteously offered to publish a reply, should one be offered. I have waited in the expectation that some member of the party thus rigorously assailed would furnish one, but this has not been done, I will avail myself of your politeness. Though I shall not presume to measure lances with your correspondent, I will offer a few remarks on the temper of his communication.

There has been a vast deal of political animosity in this city for years; it has retarded the growth of everything that is good; it has annihilated that kindly feeling of each to the other which forms the primary condition of commercial prosperity; it has set neighbor against neighbor, created jealousies and cliques, until it has marred the foundation of our society, and made us unreasoning opposers of every measure, good or bad, that is supported by our natural enemies—"the other side."

This is wrong, and presents a permanent barrier to that interchange of opinion, confidence and trust, which is essential to our progress in everything good; and I was, therefore, pained to see the old score opened at this unreasonable hour by one, who I judge from the tenor of his communication, is a member of the Republican party.

That party was organized by men who had heretofore fought in the ranks of all the old factions, and it seemed agreed by common consent, that all, native or foreign, Whig, or Democrat, should enter it on equal terms. True, its first battle was fought against a two-sided alliance and had in it all the elements of a bitter strife; but that over, one opponent utterly routed in the State, and the other completely absorbed, it would seem unnecessary, if not unwise, to revive the rancor of the conflict while the flag of peace proclaimed the termination of the struggle.

"Democrat" tells some wholesome truths but I object, mainly to the offensive manner in which they are asserted. He says that the Democratic party was pure, in the earlier part of its history, but now, it is "rank and vile," "noisy brutes," "blatant, bloated, un-soaked," "lean and lousy," "a frenzied whelp, hagborn" &c., &c. The Democratic party, like every other party in this country, is pure, if by purity we mean devotion to the best interests of the country.

There are exceptions in all parties, but I confidently believe in the patriotism of the great bulk of all the parties, both heretofore, and now. In the leaders of the Democratic party, from the beginning, I have never shared the confidence of the majority of my countrymen. Indeed all experience shows us, that selfishness in politicians, of whatever grade, is not to be looked for, and in that respect one party can hardly claim much precedence over its opponents. One man, stands alone in the political history of this nation, who was thoroughly patriotic, and wholly unselfish. But where shall we find his parallel? The great masses of all parties, having nothing to gain but everything to lose from political dishonesty, and being without that petty ambition that soils the purity of the office seeker, have no object in view but the good of their country.

Ours was a movement of that people, an indignant rebuke to corruption in high places, and an emphatic, thunder-toned demand that "Liberty," and not "Slavery," shall receive the protection and fostering care of Government. It was a spontaneous uprising of the masses, and it will never again subside until its liberties are secure. Our cause is sacred; let us then be just and kindly, that we may move mens hearts to sympathize with our high aims, and not repel them by harshness or intemperance.

REPUBLICAN.

Political parties are courtesies to deprive the state of the wisdom of one half of its citizens; and to deprive one half of its citizens from participations in their government.

We understand that the Borden Wood farm, about 3 miles out on the east road, was recently sold to Charles T. Hazard, Esq., for $10,000.

The place of Minister Crompton, after having been kept vacant for a period of seven months, is about to be refilled in the person of Hon. C. P. Villiers, the present Judge Advocate General in the governments brother of the Foreign Secretary, and as acceptable a representative to this country as could have been named.

Mr. Editor:—I am happy in knowing that the city of Newport is no longer willing to have it said that her sister outstrips her in that she is without a single Republican Journal. But since the conflict is over, the struggle ended, and our political destiny plainly marked out for the next four years, even Newport has become indignant to the principles and policy of the present administration, as also to the one incoming, and has shown a bold front in starting the "Newport Weekly Journal and Rhode Islander," as an unflinching advocate of true Republicanism. We are glad that her month is no longer to be hermetically closed. The temptation to silence is doubtless very strong, especially at those seasons when enjoying the society of distinguished southern gentlemen.

But even among them we find the staunch defenders of the "rights of man," the lovers of freedom, and perhaps not a few real patriots or country-loving men and women who are always willing to lend a helping hand in pushing forward a good cause. And the cause of perpetuating a good, healthy Republican Journal can be looked upon in no other light than that of a good one. Men and women may not flinch to speak forth their unbiased sentiments with reference to social and moral wrongs, neither should they be choked in the attempt to speak in terms of repudiation of political intrigues for hoodwinking the ignorant.

Literary.
The Life and Recollections of John Howland, late President of the Rhode Island Historical Society. By Edwin M. Stone. Providence: George H. Whitney, 1857. For sale by C. E. Hammett, Jr.

We have already spoken of this volume as a work of great local interest. On finding it for sale in one of our book stores, we hope it will not only be for sale but sold in all our book stores—we take occasion to call the attention of our readers once more to this valuable history of a life.

This is not the life of a great man, as we often falsely reckon greatness, but it is the history of a long life of a good and useful man, such a man as makes up the bone and sinew, both in knowledge and in action, of a great people. It is, therefore, a life's history eminently fit to be told. Such lives as this of John Howland make up the real life of a nation, and such histories as this are the best records of a people.

By reading these pages we have a key to the general history of our State. The significance of great events and the characters of great men are here revealed to us as they could be in no other way as his life shows. Mr. Howland knew the history of Rhode Island and was a fit president of her historical society. His diary, kept for several years—and which contains his memories, as well as passing events, is invaluable to every one who wishes to know what has been best in this little State.

Mr. Stone in preparing this volume has performed his task with marked ability and faithfulness. And we are sure his work will meet the success it deserves. The volume is well got up and reflects credit upon the Providence Printing House that issued it. It contains a likeness—we are told by those who knew the original, a fine one—of Mr. Howland.

No historical collection, at least in Rhode Island, is complete without this life.

HON. HENRY W. HILLARD RETURNING TO THE MINISTRY.—At a recent Alabama Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church, Hon. H. W. Hillard announced his intention of returning to the ministry. He had been alluded to in the Conference as the probable editor of the Methodist organ to be established in Montgomery, and the proposition meeting with some question, Mr. Hillard arose, and turning to Bishop Pierce, presiding, addressed him as follows:

"Give you my hand, my brother, in this great work! Henceforth our paths of life shall not diverge! I come in the maturity of my manhood, deliberately to lay my heart, intellect, and whatever of trophies I have won in other walks of life, professional or political, humbly at the foot of the Cross, with motives which befit the service of my Master. Let it be distinctly understood that no vote which this Conference may take upon the pending proposition can affect my resolution to give myself to this work. At home and abroad, in my solitary journeying, or standing in the palaces of kings, I have never forgotten my early vows. I have seen the beginning and end of earthly greatness. Intimately associated with some of the first living statesmen of this age and country, I have seen them pass away from this earth. Sir, I know the vanity of earthly things. Come humbly, but I come preserving that self-respect without which I should not be meet for the Master service. I ask nothing from this conference on my own personal account. Let the vote have no reference to me. No, no, sir! I have never lowered my crest when facing political parties in the day of battle. I preserve myself-respect but I desire to achieve something that will enable me, when this world burns up, to be recognized by the Great Head of the church as a friend of Christ, and to take my place, however humble, among martyrs and saints who have loved and served him on earth."

This is the substance of his remarks, delivered to the spell-bound audience. It was a scene of intense moral sublimity. May he find grace equal to his noble resolution. Long may he live to edify the church, and finally win and wear the crown of endless joy and glory.—Macon, Ga., Telegraph.

TERRIBLE DISASTER AT SALTILLO, MEXICO.—A correspondent of The New Orleans Delta, writing from Monterey, Mexico, under date of November 2, says:—"A day or two after Rosas' arrival at Saltillo, that city, was the scene of a most terrible disaster. The powder and other munitions of war that had been deposited in the City Hall, by some means unknown, caught fire, and with an awful explosion, blew up the building, burying in the ruins over fifty persons. Among the victims were several highly respectable persons belonging to Saltillo. Rosas' forces justly consider it an evil omen under which to commence their operations against the frontier."

Jacob L. Porter, keeper of the Bristol County House of Correction has been appointed Warden of the Massachusetts State Prison.

Mr. Editor:—You would undoubtedly benefit many of your female readers by reprinting from "Hall's Journal of Health" the following.

COLD FEET.—Cold feet are the avenues to death of multitudes every year; it is a sign of imperfect circulation—of want of vigor of constitution. No one can be well whose feet are habitually cold. When the blood is equally distributed to every part of the body, there is generally good health. If there be less blood at any one point there is a coldness; and not only so there must be more than is natural at some part of the system; and there is fever, that is, unnatural heat or oppression. In cases of cold feet, the amount of blood wanting there, collects at some other part of the body which happens to be weakest, to be least able to throw a barricade against the rushing enemy. Hence, where the lungs are weakest, the blood gathers there in the shape of a common cold, of often spitting blood.

Clergymen, other public speakers, and singers, by improper exposure, often render the throat the weakest part; to such, cold feet give hoarseness, or a raw, burning feeling, most felt at the bottom of the neck.—To others again whose bowels are weak from over-eating or drinking spirituous liquor, cold feet give various degrees of derangement, from common looseness up to the diarrhea or dysentery; and so we might go through the whole body; but for the present this is sufficient for illustration.

If you are well, let yourself alone. But to those whose feet are inclined to be cold, we suggest:

As soon as you get up in the morning put both feet in a basin of cold water, so as to come half way to the ankles; keep them in half a minute, rubbing vigorously; wipe them dry, and hold them to the fire, if convenient, in cold weather, till every part of you feels as dry as your hand, and then put on your socks or stockings.

On coming to bed at night draw off your stockings and hold your feet to the fire ten or fifteen minutes, till perfectly dry, and go to bed. This is a most pleasing operation, and fully repays you for the trouble of it.—No one can sleep well or refreshingly with cold feet. All Indians and hunters sleep with their feet to the fire.

Never step from you bed with the naked feet on an uncarpeted floor. I have known it to be the exciting cause of a month of illness.

Wear woolen, cotton, or silk stockings, whichever keeps the feet most comfortable; do not let the experience of another be your guide, for different persons require different articles; what is good for a person whose feet are naturally damp cannot be good for one whose feet are dry. The donkey who had his bag of salt lightened by swimming a river, advised our companion, who was loaded down with a sack of wool, to do the same, and having no more sense than a man or woman, he plunged in, and the moment the wool absorbed the water, it increased the burden many fold, and bore him with it to the bottom.

SPECIAL NOTICES.

ANOTHER TRIUMPH OF THE
Defiance! Salamander Sales!

Mr. ROBT. M. PATRICK, 192 Pearl-st., New York, Nov. 4th, 1856.
DEAR SIR:—The Defiance Sale, No. 5,778, purchased from you about eighteen months since, was in my house at Newport, R. I., which, with the furniture, was entirely destroyed by fire on the night of 6th the June last. The safe, after being exposed to an intense heat for many hours, was recovered on the 10th of June. Not having the necessary tools at hand to open it, the same was stored just as when recovered, until shipped to your address, Nov. 1st.

I was greatly surprised, as were also others present, to find the contents, consisting of valuable silver plate, &c., in as perfect order as when placed therein. It is with pleasure I add my testimony to the merits of the Safes of our manufacture. Yours, Respectfully,
ROBERT M. PATRICK.

SALES OF ALL SIZES, Plate Chests for Private Families, &c., always on hand, for sale and made to order, at the Depot, 192 Pearl Street, New York, below Maiden Lane, and at the Manufactory, Nos. 60, 62, 64 and 66 Cannon street, New York.

From India.
Extract of a letter received from Rev. B. C. Thomas.

TAVOY, November 18th, 1853.—MESSRS. P. DAVIS & SON.—Dear Sir:—The Karens here have no more confidence in their Karens here. They desire rational remedies for their sickness, and are principally attracted to the agency of the Rev. D. B. Clayton, these Karens people have become acquainted with your medicine, and their demand for it is to me very surprising.

I have now by me orders for more than fifty bottles; but I have not got one bottle; I therefore wish you to send me a quantity. I could dispose of at least one hundred bottles this year. Send it, and I will pay you through the Treasurer of the Missionary Union. I hope we shall be served with some of your medicine as soon as possible. There is no medicine which stands so high in the estimation of the Karens of these provinces as the Pain Killer, and I feel willing to gratify them, as I entertain a very high opinion of its worth. B. C. THOMAS.

CALCUTTA, November 4th, 1853.
MESSRS. PERRY DAVIS & SON.—Dear Sir:—Confirming my respects of the 4th ult., (dupli cate herewith) I had it necessary to address you again, as my next shipment of medicine was not yet received. The call for your valuable medicine is increasing so very rapidly that I fear I shall soon be unable to keep pace with it, as I have only about one hundred bottles of the supply per Union on hand, and trust that ere this you will have dispatched my order of June last. My particular object in writing now is to beg that on receipt of this, and by first direct opportunity offering immediately after you will kindly dispatch another batch as ordered in my letter of June last. I hope, however, I will not be entirely out before your last despatch reaches me, of which, however, I have not yet heard from you. I remain, dear Sir, yours sincerely, J. L. CARRAU. Sold by all dealers in medicine.

A CARD TO THE LADIES.

Dr. DORRANCE'S Golden Periodical Pills for Females. Perfectly harmless, yet wonderfully and powerfully efficacious in correcting, regulating, and removing all obstructions from whatever cause.

All medical men know, as well as many others, that no female can enjoy good health, unless she is regular; and whenever an obstruction is formed, and whatever the cause, the blood, or any other cause, the general health begins immediately to decline, and the want of such a remedy has been the cause of so many curious and dangerous symptoms among young females. Headache, Pain in the Side, Palpitation of the Heart, Loathing of Food, and Disturbed Sleep, are most always arising from the interruption of the regularity of the system. It is the case, the Pills will invariably remedy all these evils; and may always be used successfully as a preventive. Price $1.00 per box. For sale by HAZARD & CASWELL, 12 Washington Square.

and 137 Thames St. They will supply the trade at manufacturers' prices. Ladies, by enclosing $1.00 to STURGIS & CO., Box 24, Newport Post Office, can have the Pills sent (confidentially) by mail to any part of the city or country. Jy23—1y

REVERIES OF A BACHELOR.

BY FREDERICK POICKS, No. 4.

Am—"A Few Days." Cold Weather's coming soon, we know, In a few days, a few days, With ice and hail, rain and snow, As you are going home. But that my boys can do no harm, For a few days, a few days; Sisoo's Clothing's nice and warm, As you are going home.

CHORUS. And his sign it hangs up yonder, For a few days, a few days, His sign it hangs up yonder, As you are going home.

Shanghai Coats are all the go, For a few days, a few days; Sisoo's sells them mighty low, As you are going home. His Opera Sacks are quite the rage, For a few days, a few days; To fit you, Sisoo will engage, As you are going home.

And his sign, &c.

Pants and Vests of every hue, For a few days, a few days; Warm Overcoats and Bagnans, too, As you are going home. Talmans, Gloves, nice Shawls and all, For a few days, a few days; Made to fit both great and small, As they are going home.

And his sign, &c.

At Six North Main St. is his store, For a few days, a few days; The rush each day is more and more, As you are going home. His prices they can not be beat, For a few days, a few days; His Garments always fit complete, As you are going home.

And his sign, &c.

Then rally, friends, both one and all, For a few days, a few days; And give this famous Store a call, As you are going home. Sisoo will you kindly greet, For a few days, a few days; The place is Number Six North Main Street, As you are going home.

And his sign it hangs up yonder, For a few days, a few days; His sign it hangs up yonder, As you are going home. Fall River, Nov. 27.
